The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Carter et al (5,130,105) in view Lepre (6,056,920).

The Carter et al reference teaches an apparatus for the growth of proteins, note entire reference. The apparatus consists of a multi-well plate including a frame with multiple wells, note figure 1. Each well has two separate and distinct sub well. There is a larger volume well and a smaller well. The two wells are in communication with each other, note figure 2. The sole difference between the instant claims and the prior art is the position of the sub wells. However, the Lepre reference teaches an apparatus for protein growth where each well has two sub wells and the smaller well is suspended over the first well, note figure 1b. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify the Carter et al reference by the teachings of the Lepre reference to place one sub well over the first sub well, in order to improve the contact between the two sub wells increasing rates. Also, process limitations in apparatus claimed are given little or no weight in determining patentability of the apparatus.

Claims 2 to 9 and 11 to 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Carter et al (5,130,105) in view Lepre (6,056,920).

The Carter et al and Lepre references are relied on for the same reasons as stated, supra, and differ from the instant claims in the well shape and handling system.

Art Unit: 1722

However, in the absence of unexpected results, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to determine through routine experimentation the optimum, operable well shapes and handling system in the combined references in order to increase control over the reaction and increase the control of the movements of the multi-well plates.
